MONARCH RECEIVES GRANTS FOR ADAPTIVE TECHNOLOGY TO HELP IMPROVE THE LIVES OF PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES

Monarch recently received two grants totaling $5,500 to help fund important technology initiatives. Monarch's Beach Club of Dare received a $3,000 grant from the Board of Directors of the Outer Banks Community Foundation and was also awarded $2,500 from the Richard Chapman Cleve Fund, granted by the Craven County Community Foundation, an affiliate of the N.C. Community Foundation.

Both grants will be used to assist individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities who use adaptive and interactive technology, including iPads, for rehabilitation and to assist with more effective communication. People supported by Monarch with limited mobility will gain confidence when they are able to use devices with simple touch screen features to solve puzzles they would not have been able to solve before because of unsteady hands.

Similarly, adults with disabilities will now have the potential to gain more independence and foster a secure living environment with the use of iPads, which will allow them to set simple reminders such as locking the door, turning off the oven or taking a medication.

"Technology empowers people and gives a new sense of independence and confidence," explained Blake Martin, chief development officer at Monarch. "Our goal is to provide the people we support with the most recent technology to enhance their lives as well as to improve our ability to provide services and treatment."

Monarch's highly-trained clinicians and technology staff have researched the latest technological trends that will better assist and help improve the quality of life for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities and mental health challenges. Monarch's Beach Club has received new devices and software apps.

About the Outer Banks Community Foundation

The Outer Banks Community Foundation was organized in 1982 as a public charity to meet local needs in the Outer Banks area not ordinarily within the province of other charitable organizations, religious institutions, or government. The Foundation Board of Directors, composed of leading citizens who serve without compensation, administers all the funds of the Foundation and approves all grants.

About the Craven County Community Foundation

The Craven County Community Foundation, an affiliate of the North Carolina Community Foundation, was established to serve local nonprofit organizations, donors and charitable causes. The mission of the Craven County Community Foundation is to enable people of all means interested in the future of the county to make significant and lasting gifts for the benefit of the community. ●

MONARCH CELEBRATES THE DAVID KLING COMMUNITY ROOM AT THE MCACC

People supported, staff, community leaders and friends of Monarch gathered to honor the generosity of the Kling family in July at the dedication of the David Kling Community Room located at the Monarch Creative Arts and Community Center (MCACC) in Southern Pines.

The community room is at the heart of the MCACC offering a meeting/ gathering space, a full service kitchen, where people supported engage in learning culinary skills and a spacious bistro area for special dining occasions. At the ribbon cutting and dedication, Joe and Nancy Kling – and their son David – were honored for their generosity and contributions toward the project.

“Nancy and I wanted to provide people who attend MCACC with a place they could be proud of when community members visit the center,” Joe Kling said. “They spend a great deal of time in the community room, where they learn and share together and we felt that it was important to contribute to the project.”

“We like putting money towards making a big impact and that our contributions are going to more immediate results,” the couple said about their donations to Monarch. “We believe in making people with mental disabilities and substance abuse part of society.”
